Penn State trustees OK plan

New Kensington, Fayette, Shenango impacted by decision to close seven branch campuses

By Maddie Aiken
Pittsburgh Post-Gazette

Penn State's Board of Trustees opted to shutter seven of the university's branch campuses during a virtual meeting Thursday evening, despite state-wide outcry that the plan could betray the university's mission to offer an accessible public education, and it could devastate education and economic mobility in the state's rural communities.

Three campuses in Western Pennsylvania — New Kensington, Fayette and Shenango in Sharon — are now slated to close after the 2026-27 academic year. Other campuses impacted by closure include DuBois in Central Pennsylvania and York, Wilkes-Barre and Mont Alto on the eastern side of the state.

Twenty-five trustees voted in favor of closure and eight voted against. Those who voted against the plan included Jay Paterno, Anthony Lubrano, Ted Brown, Donald Cairns, Lynn Dietrich, Barry Fenchak, Chris Hoffman and Nicholas Rowland.

Prior to the vote, trustees deliberated on the matter for nearly two hours. Penn State President Neeli Bendapudi also provided brief remarks urging trustees to vote in favor of closure.

D.C. SHOOTING

SUSPECT CHARGED WITH MURDER

Affidavit: Man said he 'did it for Palestine'

WASHINGTON — The man accused of fatally shooting two staff members of the Israeli Embassy in Washington outside a Jewish museum told police after his arrest, "I did it for Palestine, I did it for Gaza," federal authorities said Thursday in announcing charges in the killings they called a targeted act of terror.

Elias Rodriguez, 31, shouted "Free Palestine" as he was led away after his arrest, according to charging documents that provided chilling new details of the Wednesday night attack in the nation's capital that killed an American woman and Israeli man who had just left an event at the museum. They were set to become engaged.

The stunning attack prompted Israeli missions to beef up their security and

Footprint changes for growing Picklesburgh

Festival to expand for 10th anniversary

By Madaleine Rubin

Picklesburgh is returning to its roots.

For the festival's 10th anniversary, the Pittsburgh Downtown Partnership is expanding the footprint to span much of the Golden Triangle, including two of Pittsburgh's Sister Bridges, where the festival was first held in 2015. The new festival map includes the Roberto Clemente Bridge, Andy Warhol Bridge, Allegheny Landing, Fort Duquesne Boulevard, PPG Plaza, Market Square, Sixth Street and Heinz Hall Garden.

"This event now is bigger than it's ever been from a layout perspective, and we really are looking at how we can continue to make this a fun festival for our patrons and support the local economy," PDP CEO Jeremy Waldrup said Thursday. "That's what you're seeing with this footprint."

The festival will run July 11-13. Allegheny County Council on Wednesday approved the PDP's plans to use the bridges for the event, which has run every year since 2015, except in 2020 when it was canceled during the pandemic.

In its first year, Picklesburgh attracted just over 20,000 people — a number the PDP saw as "wildly successful" at the time, Mr. Waldrup said.

But last year, around 250,000 attended — a nearly 1,000% increase from year one. Downtown hotel occupancy rose by 27%, with 90% of rooms filled throughout the festival weekend, according to VisitPittsburgh.

A 'big boost' to local businesses

Fan favorites will return this year, including the pickle juice chugging and pickle bobbing competitions, held in PPG Plaza.

TRUMP'S AGENDA

House GOP passes big bill of tax breaks

WASHINGTON — House Republicans stayed up all night to pass their multitriple-billion-dollar tax breaks package, with Speaker Mike Johnson defying the skeptics and unifying his ranks to muscle President Donald Trump's priority bill to approval Thursday.

With last-minute concessions and stark warnings from Trump, the Republican holdouts dropped their opposition to salvage the "One Big Beautiful Bill" that's central to the GOP agenda. The House launched debate before midnight and by dawn the vote was called, 215-214, with Democrats staunchly opposed. It goes to the Senate, with long negotiations ahead.

"To put it simply, this bill gets Americans back to winning again," said Mr. Johnson, R-La.

The outcome caps an intense time on Capitol Hill, with days of private negotiations and public committee hearings,
